Lion dance, fireworks and breaking the ground

Both customers, suppliers, business partners and official representatives from China had accepted the invitation to attend the ground-breaking ceremony for Danish Crown's new factory outside Shanghai.

- With my civil engineering background, I have attended ground-breaking ceremonies for several major construction projects, but none compare to what I have seen today, explains Søren F. Eriksen, CEO of Danish Crown Pork.

Together with Danish Crown's Group CEO, Jais Valeur, and the party secretary for the Pinghu district, Qi Hailong, Søren F. Eriksen cut the first sod for the construction project. This was followed by a fascinating lion dance which, according to Chinese tradition, brings luck to the project.

- It has been an amazing day with all the people who will be contributing to making the factory in Pinghu a success. In China, the beginning of a large construction project is an even more important milestone than is the case in Denmark. Because the ceremony is specifically used to look each other in the eyes to ensure that you embark on the project together, says Søren F. Eriksen.

Danish Crown's new factory is situated in Pinghu some 100 km from the city centre of Shanghai. With an area of 17,000 square metres, it is expected to produce 14,000 tonnes of processed products a year for the 25 million people living in Shanghai.

Tulip is on IKEA's menu in Hong Kong

Alongside meatballs, mashed potatoes and cinnamon rolls on IKEA's menu, you can now also enjoy delicious baby back ribs from Tulip Food Company, if you feel like traveling to the other side of the world - more specifically, Hong Kong. During this spring IKEA serves delicious spareribs from Tulip's factory in Dinklage. Thanks to the great cooperation between Tulip Food Company and Danish Crown, the sale of baby back ribs to the big furniture chain in Hong Kong is now a reality.

- Over the last few years we have been working hard in the foodservice market in Hong Kong in the cooperation with Danish Crown. This collaboration has now opened the market for customers such as Pizza Hut, Saizeriya, Bakkavor and now IKEA, where we currently are on the spring menu with our baby back ribs from Dinklage, says Area Export Manager, Niels W. Thomsen and continues,
- The amazing sales work of their Foodservice Sales Manager, Ray Chan, has opened doors to big and interesting customers in Hong Kong. We hope that this may be the start of closer cooperation about the opportunities offered by one of the world's largest restaurants, he says.
