Sustainability to elevate Danish Crown

The strategy will see Danish Crown shouldering greater responsibility for the entire value chain from farm to fork. The aim is to create a strong future for Danish agriculture and the group's owners by linking agricultural and food production directly with the increasing need for food in a world which will soon be home to 10 billion people. This will happen through increased focus on sustainability. At the same time, more focus is needed on the working environment and social integration in the workplace.

- We have created value for society for generations through developing food production which is recognised worldwide for its high quality and high food safety standards. We've done well, but the time has now come to ratchet things up a level, and ambitiously take a shared responsibility for developing even more sustainable, healthy and nutritious food products, says Jais Valeur, Group CEO of Danish Crown.

Changes must come about through cooperation

At the heart of the new CSR strategy is partnering to find long-term and real sustainable solutions. In addition, the strategy focuses on sustainable agriculture, sustainable food production, good jobs for everyone and driving the market and innovation together with customers and consumers.

- Meat impacts the climate and the environment, but is at the same time a vital source of protein. Therefore, Danish Crown will head developments which can raise sustainability standards for everything from the growing of crops, animal housing systems and animal welfare, to resource utilisation and the working environment at our production facilities, says Jais Valeur.

Partnerships and Feeding the World stakeholder conference

In spring 2018, Danish Crown will open the doors to a stakeholder conference where NGOs, researchers, politicians, suppliers, farmers and customers from all over the world are invited to design and create new and lasting solutions which can significantly elevate sustainability and create added value throughout the value chain.

- There are many players around the world who have strong views and extensive knowledge about how we can operate more sustainably. It is an incredibly complex task involving a long global value chain, so we need to bring together a lot of people to undertake this, says Jais Valeur.
